Concussive and Subconcussive Injury: Late Clinical and Neuropathological Consequences

Ann C. McKee, MD
Associate Professor of Neurology & Pathology;
Director, Neuropathology Core
Boston University

Objectives
At the conclusion of this presentation, participants will be able to:

- Describe the neuropathological changes associated with Chronic Traumatic Encephalopathy (CTE) and Chronic Traumatic Encephalmyopathy (CTEM) and the association with repetitive head trauma;
- Recognize the clinical features of CTE; and
- Recognize the clinical and pathological features of CTEM.

Disclosure
Regarding financial interest in or affiliation with any manufacturer of any commercial product(s) discussed in any of the 2011 presentations, Dr. McKee has indicated the following affiliations/financial interests:

- Grants and Research Support: National Institutes of Health, National Institute on Aging, National Operating Committee on Standards for Athletic Equipment and the National Football League

Additionally, Dr. McKee has indicated that she WILL NOT be discussing unapproved uses of a commercial product, or investigational use of a product not yet approved for this purpose during her presentation.